Heaven - Calum Scott | Chord & Lyrics

Title Song : Heaven Singer : Calum Scott key : D Tuning : standart

```
[Intro]
D Dsus4 D Dsus4

[Verse 1]
G                        A
   I used to count the stars in the sky
D
Now I count the ones in your eyes
G                    A
I used to think that my paradise
D
Was somewhere waiting on the other side
     G        A
But you, ooh-ooh
         D
Take me higher than I've been
        Bm
Laying hands on my skin
       G        A
It's true, ooh-ooh
          Dsus4          D
Nothing compares to you...

[Chorus]
             G                  A
So tell me why, what good is life?
                     D                       Bm
If we're all just waiting to dance in the sky
              G                    A
I'm already there, here in your eyes
                D        A/C#          Bm                 G
We climb the gates every time that you lie down n?xt to me
            A                    D          A/C#           Bm
I rest in peac?, they say it's better, but how could that be?
    A        G               A
If everyone had a love like us
               G                 A
They wouldn't call that place above, "Heaven"

[Verse 2]
G                A                   D
   Waking up to you feels like a pinch-myself moment

G                  A                    D
   If we're only here for a while, I wanna spend
                    G         A
All of it holding you, ooh-ooh
          Bm
Take me higher than I've been
                                    G          A
Got me questioning everything I knew, ooh-ooh
                  Dsus4          D
'Cause nothing compares to you...

[Chorus]
              G                   A
So tell me why, what good is life?
                     D                         Bm
If we're all just waiting to dance in the sky
               G                     A
I'm already there, here in your eyes
                 D         A/C#           Bm                  G
We climb the gates every time that you lie down n?xt to me
             A                     D           A/C#            Bm
I rest in peac?, they say it's better, but how could that be?
    A         G                 A
If everyone had a love like us
                G                  A
They wouldn't call that place above, "Heaven"

[Bridge]
Bm                    A                         D
   Nothing comes, nothing comes close to this
                      G                 Bm
Looking up, looking up even if it exists
     A                  Em
My Heaven is on your lips

[Chorus]
              G                   A
So tell me why, what good is life?
                     D                         Bm
If we're all just waiting to dance in the sky
               G                     A
I'm already there, here in your eyes
                 D         A/C#           Bm                  G
We climb the gates every time that you lie down n?xt to me
             A                     D           A/C#            Bm
I rest in peac?, they say it's better, but how could that be?
